Walking in the Algarve

The mild climate, especially during winter and spring, makes the Algarve ideal for beautiful walks along cliffs and mountains, rivers and through green countryside. It shows a great variety of habitats and is therefore quite unique with Mediterranean ecosystems that give rise to a diverse range of trees, wild flowers, birds and other animals.

We take advantage of such great potential by offering a range of many different walking programs. Each day highlights the varied terrain, wildlife and traditions enabling us to explore one of the last remaining unspoiled corners of Europe.

Choose between biological excursions, cliff walks along a fantastic and well preserved coastline, mountain walks in the inner region or nature trails in the protected areas. The itineraries are designed to give you a good introduction to the region you are visiting and we want you to experience beautiful nature during a moderate pace.

Our tours are suitable for all levels of walking experience and for all ages. Our guides are very competent and experienced with a profound knowledge in botanic, fauna and regional geography in the areas visited.
